

Mary Prind
of m' dunn

Faint, illegible handwritten text at the top of the page.

T H E

Art of Mineral Spring

or System of Springs

in the City of London and illustrated

by plates

by a royal letter of HUMPHREY and MENDOZA

LONDON

1793

T H E

Art of Manual Defence

or,

system of boxing perspicuously explained in a series of lessons.

and illustrated

by plates

by a pupil both of

HUMPHREYS and MENDOZA

LONDON.

1799.

EDUCATION

To the former edition

It is the present teacher on the of being the teacher on the based equally to the progress of the philosophy of education found a system upon the kind and manner of work of the purpose of the present should there a slight generalization in any particular instance instructions of their respective the they are to be directed to course of something the method the one by the selection of that of the other, whenever it is

ADVERTISEMENT.

To the former editions.

IN the present Treatise on the Art of Boxing, the Author has not adhered rigidly to the precepts of either Humphreys or Mendoza, but formed a System upon the Rules and Lessons of each. If, therefore, the pupils of these Boxers should perceive a slight occasional deviation, in any particular instance, from the instructions of their respective master, they are to attribute it to a desire of amending the method of the one by the substitution of that of the other, wherever it is conceiv-

Advertencia

para las primeras edic.^{as}

En el presente tratado sobre el arte del Pugilato, el Autor no se adhirió rigurosamente á los preceptos de Humphreys ó de Mendoza pero formó un sistema sobre las reglas y lecciones de cada uno de los dos. Si así, los ^{discipulos} pupilos de estos Pugiles perciviesen una ligera variacion en algun ejemplo de las instrucciones de su respectivo maestro, ellos debien atribuirlo á un deseo de emendar el método del uno por la substitucion del otro, en todas partes está concedido que uno u otro cada de por sí, es defectuoso é incapaz de servir para la propia-defensa ved that either of them is deficient and inadequate to the purpose of self-defence.

Clements - Imm.

The Author thinks it needless to add any thing in defence of the present publication. The extensive and rapid sale of the former editions, are, he trusts, sufficient to recommend it still further to the public notice, and to prove that he has not professed to teach the Art of Boxing without a competent knowledge of the subject. This will be further illustrated by a perusal of the Treatise by Mr. Mendoza, the chief precepts of which differ in very few respects from those contained in the

CONTENIDO

El Autor piensa q. no es necesario el añadir ninguna cosa en defensa de la presente publicacion —

La grande y rapida venta de las primeras ediciones es lo suficiente para recomendarlo a el conocimiento del publico y para provar que el Autor no se ha puesto a enseñar el arte del Puzo. Esto sin un completo conocimiento de este asunto. Esto sera mas adelante ilustrado por la lectura del tratado del Sr. Mendoza — cuyos principales preceptos difieren muy poco de los contenidos en esta obra present publication.

CONTENTS.

CHAP. I.

Of standing upon guard.— stopping blows that are aimed at the head and face — and the proper method of striking.

Chap. II.

Of parrying and returning — and guarding the face and stomach.

Chap. III.

Of guarding both sides of the face, and the stomach and ribs.

INDICE.

CAP. I

Del modo de ponerse en guardia — parar golpes dirigidos a la co-lera y cara — y el propio medio de acudir.

CAP II.

Del modo de parar y contestar — guardar la cara y el estomago.

CAP III.

De guardar los dos lados de la cara y el estomago y los costillos.

Chap. IV.

Of Sparring, with some miscellaneous remarks necessary to be attended to by the Pupil. p.

Chap. V.

Of the requisites necessary to form a good Boxer — and four Rules of the Art, Chap. VI.

Of the different species of blows, and of the most dangerous parts of the body in which they can be planted, p.

Chap. VII.

Of closing — and throwing falls, p.

CAP. IV.

Del modo de estar en guardia con algunas observaciones necesarias de ser observadas por el Discipulo —

CAP. V.

De los requisitos necesarios para formar un gran Pugil — y cuales son las reglas del Arte. —

CAP. VI.

De las diferentes especies de golpes y de las partes mas peligrosas del cuerpo donde ellos pueden ser dados.

CAP. VII.

Del modo de cerrar la distancia — y de irribar a su aduersario —

Chap VIII.

An explanation of the technical terms most frequently used in Boxing — p.

CONCLUSION.

Descriptive account of modern Boxers,

CAP. VIII.

Explicacion de los terminos tecnicos q. mas frecuentemente se usan en el Pugilato —

Conclusion —

Relacion descriptiva de los Pugi-les modernos —

INTRODUCTION.

THE insolence so peculiar to the manners of the lower order of people in this country has long been a subject of regret. But it is well known that such licentiousness cannot be totally prevented by legislative authority, without at the same time extirpating that liberty to which it is inseparably annexed, and which is the boast and glory of the British constitution. The only means of checking the evil is by per-

PROLOGO.

La insolencia tan peculiar en las maneras de la clase baja del pueblo en este pais, ha sido por largo tiempo un objeto de pena. Pero es bien conocido que tal licencia no puede ser totalmente impedida por la autoridad legislativa, sin al mismo tiempo destruya aquella libertad que es inseparable unida y la cual es el orgullo y gloria de la constitucion Britanica.

El unico medio de cortar el mal es el castigo personal sonal chastisement; yet a man in genteel life rarely ventures to exert his resentment in this manner, because he knows that the rudeness and scurrility of which he has so much reason to complain, generally arise from the readiness that the vulgar feel for engaging in a boxing match, and the idea that they entertain of exciting fear by the assistance of so mean an advantage, and of being enabled on this account to insult their superiors with impunity.

It is therefore an object of some utility and importance for a man to acquire a dexterity

Pero un hombre de una vida delante oficialmente se aventu-ra (se avent) a demostrar su resentimiento de este modo, porque el conoce la groseria y bufoneria de la mal el tiene tanta razon para quejarre generalmente nace de la prontitud que el vulgo siente por mezclandose en una cachetina - y la idea que ellos entretienen de excitar miedo por una por una tan vil ventaja y de ser capaces en esta o-casion de insultar con impunidad a sus superiores -

Esto es asi un objeto de alguna utilidad e importancia para que un hombre adquiriera una in Boxing, in order to defend self against such rudeness, and to protect those whose weak-age, or sex, renders them liable to the insults of the rabble, and deprives them of all power of effectual resistance. As this dexterity becomes disseminated to a greater extent among the middling and more elevated ranks of society, we may expect that the envy of the lower orders of people will less frequently seek for gratification in mortifying all whose dress and manners mark them out as their betters in quality and fortune, and that fewer in destreza en el Pugilato para defenderse a si mismo contra tal brutalidad y para proteger a aquellos quienes debilidad, edad, o sexo dispone a los insultos de la canalla, y les priva de ~~todo~~ poder de efectuar una resistencia. Como esta des-treza ~~siempre~~ se diseminada entre a una grande estension entre el median y mas alto rango de la sociedad, nosotros podemos esperar que la envidia de las bajas clases del pueblo, sera menos frecuente-mente buscada para divertirse en mortificar a todos cuyo vesti-do y maneras ~~se~~ ~~son~~ fuerra como sus mejores en qua-lidad y fortuna y aquellos pocos ^{instantes} ~~en~~ ~~los~~ ocurriran de tances will occur of the brutality of blackguardism exerting itself in alarming and insulting the virtuous female, or the infirm old man.

It is thought by many that a knowledge of Boxing tends to render the temper petulant and quarrelsome, and to make people fond of seeking opportunities of displaying their skill and ability. So far from entertaining such an opinion myself, I am rather induced to believe it will have a contrary effect. If a man, ignorant of the Art, is insulted la bontad de gente vace ejercitandore en abar^{ra}mas^{da} y m^ultas ~~de~~ las virtuosas fami lias o los enfermos viejos. —

Se piensa por muchos que un conocimiento de el Pugi lato tiende a hacer el caracte ter petulante y pendenciero y a hacer la gente amiga de buscar ocasiones oportunas de lucir su talento y abilidad Tan lejos de tener yo tal opinion yo estoy inclinado a creer que ello tendra un con trario efecto — Si un hom bre innovante de el Arte es in the street, he will naturally feel himself irritated, and when he reflects that a lowlived fellow treats him ill from a supposition of being more powerful than himself in point of personal strength his resentment may be so heightened as to hurry him to commit some rash action.

Should he, however, understand Boxing, it is more probable that he will pass by the insult from a conviction of his ability to resent it by manual castigation should it be repeated. Many per-insultado en la calle el na^{12.} turalmente se sentira irritado y mandó el reflexiona que un bajo indecente trata a él mal por una suposicion de ser mas fuerte que el entanto de fuerza personal su resentimiento puede ser elevado tal que obligue a él a co-meter alguna precipitada accion

Si el sin embargo esta en-terado en Boxear, es mas probable que el pasara por el insulto de una conviccion de su abilidad a resentirlo por ejecutar castigos si fuese repeti-do sons there doubtless are whom a knowledge of pugilism would render insolent and abusive; but this no more forms an argument against the propriety of learning the art, than the circumstance of some men having dedicated their talents to base purposes justifies a general reflection on wit and genius. Every benefit, it is well known, has its attendant evil.

The very circumstance that some men who have learnt to Box are likely to abuse their power, renders it nec-Muchas personas allí sin duda son quienes un uso inoportuno de el jugadoo haria involentes y abusivas pero esto no suforma un argumento contra el valer de aprender el arte, que las circunstancias de algunos hombres que habiendo dedicado sus talentos a bajos propositos justifica una general reflexion sobre el talento y genio. Cada beneficio a bien usado tiene sus tendencias a mal

La ~~verdadera~~ misma circunstancia que algunos hombres quienes han aprendido a Boexear son capaces a abusar de su poder hace ellos re ssary to disseminate the art to a wider extent, for the purpose of enabling others to resist the attacks of such rascals.

It is not always against the mean and illiterate alone that we are obliged to defend ourselves. Many persons whose education, and whose rank in life, should teach them to act otherwise, too often forfeit by their conduct their claim to the title and character of gentlemen. And, though it were unfair and ridiculous to wish that boxing matches should take place among people of respectability ^{and} ~~in~~ cesario a esperar el arte ^{14.} a una gran extension por el propósito de hacer capaces a otros de resistir los ataques de tales picaros. Muchas personas cuya educacion y rango congrua en la vida debe enseñarles a evitar de otro modo ~~muchas~~ demeritando amenudo olvidar por su conducta sus derechos a el título y caracter de cabe-lera. Y aunque esto fuese indemido ~~offe~~ ridiculo de-clarar que las cachetinas tomen lugar entre gente de respeto.

lead of duels, yet the frequent necessity in such a case of manfully resenting any personal affront cannot but be obvious.

For a man of the most inoffensive disposition, I should imagine that a knowledge of Boxing must be of some advantage; for it enables him to walk the streets with an idea of greater security, and if he does not intend to resent an insult, he has at least the satisfaction of reflecting that it is in his power. The arguments, indeed, against learning the science of pugilism, seem to arise from not making a en lugar de dueña pero ^{18.} la necesidad frecuente en un caso tal de un mal resentimiento o cualquiera afrenta personal no puede ser evita-da -

P. Si un hombre de la mas inofensiva disposicion yo debo imaginar que un con-cimiento de el Pugilato desde ser de alguna utilidad porque esto le hace capaz de pasarse las calles con una idea de gran seguridad y si el no ha se intencion a resentir un in-culto, el tiene a lo menos la satisfaccion de reflexionar que ello esta en su poder. Los argu-mentos, en verdad contra el aprender la ciencia del pugilato proper distinction between the inhumanity of premeditated boxing matches, and the propriety, and often the necessity of engaging in a casual encounter. Whether pitched battles ought to be encouraged, and whether their barbarity is o-verbalanced by any good effects they produce in the manner of the lower order of people, may well be made the subject of dispute; but no doubt can surely be entertained, by those who reflect on the subject for a moment, on the propriety of parecen elevarse de no haber 16. una propia distincion entre la inhumanidad de premeditar partidas de trompis y la propiedad y amenudo la necesidad de enredarse en un casual encuentro. Bien grandes batallas se pueden ver animadas y si en bar-barismo este asientado por bruta esquina a bueno efectos ello producen en el bajo orden del que no puede hacerse bien el asun-to de disputa pero no hay de lo que puede ser entendida por aque-llos que reflexionan sobre el asunto por un momento sobre la propiedad de learning the Art of self-defence, when it is well known that peaceable behaviour is no security against rudeness and insult.

By these reflections was I induced to compose the present Treatise. Two pamphlets on Boxing have already appeared, but I am convinced that neither of them can be productive of much service to those who wish to acquire a knowledge of the Art. They both consist, in a great measure, of a descriptive review of the old Boxers of Broughton's aprender el arte de la pro-¹⁷ pia defensa cuando es bien valido que un proceder pacífico no sirve de seguridad contra la rudeza y el insulto — — —

Por estas reflexiones fui yo inducido a componer el presente tratado. Dos folletos sobre el Pugilato han aparecido ya, pero yo estoy convencido que ninguno de ellos puede ser producir mucha utilidad a aquellos quienes desean adquirir un conocimiento del arte

Los dos consisten en gran manera de una revista des-criptiva de los viejos Pugiles.

time; a review, which can be an object of little curiosity to the people of the present day and which had previously appeared in all our daily and evening newspapers. One of the pamphlets alluded to gives its readers, some imperfect idea of a guard, and points out where they may strike the most successful blows, describing at the same time the reason why a stroke hit on this or that part of the body produces such and such an effect. It was originally written by Captain Godfrey, and appears to have been

18. una revista que puede ser un objeto de peque-ña utilidad para la gente de ahora y que de antemano apareciese en todos nuestros diarios y papeles de la tarde. Uno de los folletos se refiere a sus lectores una idea imperfecta de una gran obra y marca donde ello pueden vacundir los manregno golpes describiendo al mismo tiempo la razon por que un golpe dado ~~sobre tal~~ ~~o cual~~ ~~parte~~ en esta o aquella parte del cuerpo produce tal o cual efecto. Esto fue origi-nalmente escrito por el capu en composed with a perfect ~~know~~ knowledge of the powers and anatomy of the human sistem. But it can prove of little real use, as it gives no farther instructions; except indeed, in one passage, where the pupil is told to raise his arm when his adversary strikes, in order to receive the blow on it, and then to give the return. But it is likely that the first blow may be aimed at the body, in which case, if the reader obeys his sagacious instructor, and raises his arm from his guard, he will leave an opening in is 19. tan Godfrey y parece haber ido compuesto con un perfecto conocimiento de los poderes y anatomía de el sistema humano. Pero esto puede provar de puro verdadero m como esto no da mas instrucc iones; excepto en verdad, en un pasage donde se le dice al discipulo que levante su brazo mandó el adversario saca la pava recibí el golpe en el y entonces contestar. Pero esto es probable que el primer golpe puede ser apunta-do al cuerpo, en cuyo caso si el lector obedece a su sagaz instructor y levanta su brazo de su guardia el dejara una abertura en su body to receive the blow of his antagonist.

The other pamphlet merits more attention, as it gives us not only the review of old Boxers, and the treatise of Captain Godfrey, but a history of Boxing, and an athletic exercise, arranged under regular rules, and reduced into a science. This scientific portion, however, of the pamphlet, consists more of the ~~steps~~ steps which a person is to make for the purpose of advancing, retreating, and closing, than of any instructions rela-cuerpo para recibir el ^{20.} golpe de su antagonista -

El otro folleto merece mas atencion como el no da no solamente la revista de vie 10 Pugilistas y el tratado de el coronel Godfrey sino una historia de el Boxear y un ejercicio atletico arreglado con 10 reglas regulares y reducidas a ciencia. Esta cientifica pro cion sin embargo de el folle to conviene mas de lo posible que una persona debe de hacer para avanzar y retirar y cerrando que de cualesquiera instruccio nes rela

time to pugilism, or at least that most essential part of Boxing, the art of stopping blows aimed at the different parts of the body. One or two good hints are discoverable in the work, but it so abounds in technical terms, the meaning of which are not explained, as to make it totally unintelligible to a person ignorant of the principles of the art; and those terms are so coarse and vulgar, and the violations of grammar which the work contains occur so frequently, as to render it disgusting to one of the least refinement. It must va a el pugilismo o 21.

Si lo menos aquella mas esencial parte de el Pugilato el arte de parar los golpes mandados a las diferentes partes de el cuerpo. Una o dos buenas insinuaciones son desansada en la obra pero ella asi abunda en terminos tecnicos cuyo significado no este explicado como hacer ello totalmente inteligible a una persona ignorante de los principios del arte; y aquellas terminos son tan rudos y vul-gares y la violencia de gramatica cual el trabajo contiene ocurre tan frecuentemen-te como hacer ello disgustar indeed he confessed, in extenuation of these errors, that to avoid the appearance of vulgarity in the explanation of an art, the technical terms of which are very remote from elegance, is by no means an easy task, and that in correctness of expression may have arisen from the carelessness of the compositor, and not any ignorance in the author. The observations, however, which the pamphlet in question offers on training are extremely judicious; and for this reason I have, with a little necessary alteration, given the suba uno de los mejores versifica^{22.} cion Ello en verdad ~~debe~~ debe ser confesado en debilidad de estos errores que para impedir la aparición de vulgacismo en la explicación de un arte los termi-nos técnicos los cuales son muy remotos de elegancia no es por ningún medio una fácil tarea y que la inesacuidad de expresión puede haber sido motivada de la de-jadería del ~~compositor~~ y no quiere ignorancia en el autor.

Las observaciones vindicadas yo cual el folleto en cues-tion ofrece sobre la enseñanza con estremada ^{en} juicio; y por esta razón yo tengo con una peque-ña necesaria alteración dado la tance of them in the course of the ~~following~~ following treatire.

In the present work I pretend not to lay claim to the praise of elegance of style. All that appeared to me necessary on the occasion was, to commit no gross offence against grammatical correctness. My great object has been to write perspicuously and systematically.

One of the pamphlets just alluded to professes to teach the reader the Art of Boxing in so clear a manner that he instancias de él en el curso de el pigmento tratado

En la presente obra no pretendo poner derecho de estilo. Todo lo que ~~aparece~~ me ha parecido necesario en la obra fue a no cometer ~~grandes~~ ofensa contra la obra gramatical. Mi principal objeto al escribir fue el hacer lo claramente y sistemáticamente

Uno de los folletos justamente aludiendo a los profesores a enseñar a el be-tor el arte del Boxear en tan clara manera q.
el

may acquire it himself unknown to any second person, and unassisted by illustrative plates. For a man to teach ~~himself~~ without the help of a companion, or to learn wholly from a book, unaided by plates, is utterly impossible.

A Boxing-master, when he would recommend any particular attitude, will often give his scholar, in one moment a more perfect idea of his meaning, by standing in the posture himself, than he can in an hour by verbal explanation; and the deficiency of such an example is pueda adquirir esto mismo de un modo a una ve-grande persona y sin ser asistido por ilustradas lu-minas. Parece un hombre enseñar el mismo sin la ayuda de un compañero o a prender enteramente de un li-bro sin ayuda de luminas enteramente imposible

Un maestro de Boxear cuando el quisiere recomendar cualquiera particular ac-titud aconsejando darla a sus alumnos en un momento no tiene una perfecta idea de su significado estando el mismo en la postura que el puede en una hora por to be supplied alone, in a publication on the subject, by illustrative plates. Yet with such assistance the most intelligent treatise can only teach a man the theory of pugilism. He will never acquire the practice of the science, but by exercising it with a companion.

For these reasons I have endeavoured to illustrate the present work by plates, and have considered the reader as provided with a friend whose assistance will enable him to acquire a knowledge

I have constantly as desired him in the several persons, with the same de gree of unaffected familiar ty, as I would use in con versation. I should my observations have enabled one man to guard himself against the rudeness of a trifling. I shall feel some course in reflecting on the argument when I ret to write the present treatise on the Art of Manner &

THE AUTHOR.

of the Art. In order to be as plain and perspicuous as possible, I have constantly addressed him in the second person, with the same degree of unaffected familiarity, as I would use in common conversation. Should my endeavours have enabled one man to guard himself against the rudeness of a ruffian, I shall feel some pleasure in reflecting on the moment when I sat down to write the present treatise on the Art of Manual Defence.

THE AUTHOR.

8-7

